

You have sent the following questions to Public Health Wales under the Freedom of Information Act.

1. Do you know that members of the public residing at undesirable elevations above sea-level in the Merthyr area are suffering from lung decompression manifesting as daytime and nocturnal hypoxia, and, that oxygen deprivation leads to water retention and excessive weight gain, otherwise known as obesity?

2. Do you know that Welsh persons repeatedly subjected to abnormally low atmospheric air pressures are likely to suffer from the medical manifestations of hypoxia?

3. Do you know that a wrong diagnosis can lead to a civil action for damages?

I would appreciate if you could clarify what information you are actually requesting.

I will withdraw the afore-mentioned request.
