Yes, you will need to approach each Health Board/Trust. It would be helpful to them to explain what you mean and ask the questions as you have just now.

Public Health Wales is all about public health. We do not treat patients. We may use agencies for very specialised qualified staff but I suspect from your explanation that is not what you are looking for? Let me know so I can reply formally. See below for our website:

Thank you very much for your prompt reply.

I'm working on a project that requires the information namely for what framework and non framework locum agencies you use for :

Doctors

Nursing staff

Doctors and nursing staff

Do you have a staff bank ? Do they work with any particular agencies as a rule and others when simply in need ?

I'm trying to gather all of this in one place to be able to make certain comparisons and a possible tool for doctors looking for these agencies ...as in they would like to decide firstly which hospital they would like to work with and then approach a locum agency that supplies said hospital .

If I need to approach each trust then please let me know.

Thank you very much for all your help in advance

'Dear Health in Wales,

I am currently undertaking a research project and Under the Freedom of Information Act, and I would be appreciative if you would be able to provide the names of the locum agencies that you work with?
